Graphic + Interactive Design

The studio art major emphasis, Graphic + Interactive Design, provides students with a foundation of critical and creative design processes and prepares them for the profession of graphic and interactive design — including careers in identity systems, package design, motion and web design, and creative direction. Based primarily on computer technology, students will investigate new ways of solving complex visual problems and use both print and interactive designs as solutions.

Students take one year of Foundations courses that help them hone fine arts skills in the elements of composition and design. Once students have passed the Freshman Foundations Portfolio Review (usually spring term of the freshman year), they will learn the formal principles, processes, and vocabulary of print and interface design as well as graphic design history. They develop critical thinking skills and visual conceptualization not only through visual design projects but also through writing and speaking about design processes and critical theory. Students may supplement their coursework with community projects, design competitions, and design work within the university community or through an internship.

Students participate in a Junior Portfolio Review as well as Senior Project, which guide and prepare them for working in the profession or furthering their education in graduate school.

To stay current with industry standards in both print and web, the dedicated faculty of Graphic + Interactive Design routinely update the curriculum and attend conferences and workshops to pass along inspiration of today's practices to YSU students. By remaining active in the field of design, our faculty integrate real-world design issues into classroom curriculum and projects. Graphic + Interactive Design faculty are actively involved in helping their students find internships in the surrounding area, to gain further community connections and involvement in the field of design.

The faculty take pride in the skills, passion, and accomplishments with which our students graduate, all of which prepare them for a seamless transition into regional, national, and international design firms and graduate schools.
