Learning Outcomes

The Department of English and World Languages has established the following learning outcomes for students completing the English major:

- English majors will demonstrate an attentiveness to the specific features of selected (and/or assigned) texts.
- English majors will be able to explain the relationship between texts and their broader literary, historical, and cultural contexts.
- English majors will be able to analyze ways in which forms, culture, and identity influence both the production of texts and the critical reception of those texts.
- English majors will be able to establish an argumentative thesis; find and use appropriate sources to develop the student's own argument; and use clear, organized language.
